Canvas Cabins for glamping.

The Ranch at Rock Creek Nestled in one of Montana’s most pristine valleys, The Ranch at Rock Creek offers year-round unique vacations on an authentic 19th century ranch that epitomizes what it means to go “Glamping”.

The Home Ranch
Nestled in one of Montana’s most pristine valleys, the Home Ranch, an all-inclusive guest ranch set in the grandeur of the Elk River Valley, near Steamboat Springs. Distinguished by its stunning Rocky Mountain setting amidst a million-acre wilderness, the ranch is an experiential, fly fishing, and hiking paradise in the summer and fall; a Nordic and snowshoeing option in the winter; and a family-vacation dream all year long. Renowned for its Western horseback riding program, the rustic elegance of its lodging, and the beauty of its setting, the guest experience is crowned by the celebrated Home Ranch Cuisine of the chef, prepared with fruits, vegetables, and meats from its own natural farm.

Cedar Ridge Ranch
Escape the daily hustle at Cedar Ridge Ranch, where you can touch in for the night on a private ranch beneath Mt. Sopris and gaze at the Milky Way. With sweeping views of the Elk Mountain range, Instagram travel bloggers aren’t hard to find here. Cedar Ridge Ranch is a 67 acre family owned ranch offering “Glamping” in a yurt, 2 safari suites, and a cabin. With their high end amenities, they epitomize what it means to go “Glamping”. After harvesting eggs for breakfast, take a farm tour or do outdoor yoga alongside the ranch’s alpacas.
You can indulge with specialty massages followed by alfresco picnics and farm to table dinners (reservations only). There are horses to ride and old-style games for kids and quite evenings to relax by the campfires. Cedar Ridge Ranch provides asylum from life’s daily technology overload. Close to Aspen and minutes from Carbondale, the ranch can be as near to or as far away from real life as you are willing to make it.

Cedar Ridge Ranch Hotel Fogo Island Inn
The treasured 21st-century and design-minded Fogo Island Inn has been named a most unexpected setting: a remote 18th-century fishing village off of Newfoundland’s northern coast that almost seems removed from the modern world.
A contemporary, all-inclusive hotel amidst a remote setting the Inn has a seasonal program which would encompass skiing, stargazing, caribou tracking and snowshoeing.
