The 14 Best Lakefront Hotels in the U.S.

Diving into crystal clear waters; spending the days exploring hidden coves by canoe or kayak; hiking in the woods; waiting at the dock for the first stars to appear... a visit to a lake resort is one of the best getaways for those looking to get out into nature. Be it for a last-minute summer trip or a cozy fall or winter escape, here are Indagare's favorite lakefront hotels in the U.S., from Austin to Alaska.

The Point, Saranac Lake, New York

On a forested peninsula overlooking Upper Saranac Lake, The Point is an 11-room playground for Adirondack adventure. Its original log cabins—which used to host the Rockefellers—all showcase traditional rustic-chic décor, with cozy fireplaces and white-pine walls. Expect easy days boating on the lake or hiking nearby trails. Come dinner time, guests have the option of enjoying each other's company over a seasonal menu in the Great Hall or a more casual menu in The Pub, dining in your room or choosing another location on property.
