Hotel Overview ^

For couples looking for seclusion amid pristine nature, this former Rockefeller Adirondacks Mountains Great Camp is the ultimate luxury. Now a Relais & Chateaux resort, this is the type of place where you can ask the staff for anything and they'll bend over backward to accommodate you.

Did you mention offhand that you love flourless chocolate cake? Expect to see it for dessert the next night. Wondering about a picnic lunch after your hike? It will be set up in a stunning spot, complete with Champagne. Dinners are communal in the Great Hall unless you request to dine in your room, and the food is next-level delicious. Guests can also enjoy top-shelf alcohol and high-end wines included in the price.

While you can participate in seasonal activities like boating and cross-country skiing, you can just as easily stay inside your sumptuous room with its roaring fireplace, deep soaking tub, and impossibly fluffy bed. Each suite is different, but all are luxurious and filled with thoughtful details. If you want WiFi, however, you'll have to go to the front office.
